Public dance, Friday, May 3, Worthen hall, round and square dances—adv.
John P. Corcoran of the postoffice force was a business visitor in St. Johnsbury yesterday.
James Sullivan returned to his home in Roxbury this morning, after visiting friends in the city.
Miss Ethel Warden, who has been attending a business college in Albany, N. Y., has returned to the city.
Mrs. Susan Parks of Plainfield is visiting for a few days at the home of her son, Harry S. Parks, of King street.
Have you done your duty to Uncle Sam? If not don't delay, but do it now by subscribing for a Liberty bond at the Quarry Savings Bank & Trust Co.
Mrs. Gustave E. Berg and Miss Adele Thompson, who were recently graduated from the training school for nurses at the City hospital, left today for Boston, where they have employment in their profession.
Sale of auction of household furniture at the C. H. Corliss farm, one mile from Williamstown village, will be continued Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock, at which time all of the best household furniture will be disposed of. D. A. Perry, auctioneer.

There will be a meeting of the Board of Trade war chest committee this evening at 7:30 o'clock. Ten representative men of the city have been named as committee members, and they are devoting considerable time to some of the preliminary details of the canvass that is to be made when the chest begins to fill.
Spanish-American war veterans of Washington county do not expect to hold an elaborate mid-May celebration this year, although it is probable that the entertainment committee will arrange for some kind of an outing to commemorate the mustering-in of the 1st Vermont regiment back in 1898. The anniversary falls on May 16.
Manager Young of the Spaulding high school baseball team has started negotiations with the management of the People's academy baseball nine at Morrisville for a game at that place Saturday afternoon. The high school schedule will not open until next Friday afternoon, when they are to line up against Montpelier seminary at the Lincoln campus.

The Barre park commission has decided not to purchase a new fountain for City square this year, although plans for a new one were practically completed at the close of last season. Instead, the present fountain will be much in evidence, as in the past, and an effort will be made to repair the centerpiece, which is rapidly outgrowing its usefulness. The granite bowl is in excellent shape.

A former Goddard seminary baseball player will appear in the Boston navy yard line-up in the clash with Camp Devens baseball team at Boston Sunday afternoon, when the two teams are scheduled to meet. Lawton Witt, who played under the Philadelphia Athletics standards last season, will play shortstop for the navy yard team, he being at present stationed at that place as one of the naval reserves.

The following Barre young men went to Montpelier this afternoon to report to the county local board: Faust Bignamio, B. Nelson Brown, Louis Jacques, John Bottaro, Giovanni Brunelli and William G. Cummings of Barre Town. Donato Coletti of this city will report from Northfield, where he has been visiting for a few days. The men leave tomorrow for Fort Slocum.

Yesterday afternoon when a heavily laden auto truck lumbered by the Daylight store, one of the fore wheels struck a granite chip on the paving with rather disastrous results for an outdoor show-case in front of the store. The resultant chip flying in the direction of the showcase, a glass panel of which was punctured. A thickness of a quarter inch in the plate glass of the case did not repel the stone.

A. H. Buzzell, the Pearl street hotel man, has enrolled as a regular subscriber to Stars and Stripes, the official organ of the American expeditionary forces in France. Undoubtedly he is the first Barre man to subscribe, although copies of the trench journal have been received here from time to time. Stars and Stripes is an eight-page paper, intelligently illustrated, and carrying, besides numerous news articles, a sporting page and various other features in lighter vein. One of the most notable contributions is the column known as "The Listening Post," which is edited by Franklin P. Adams, a former conductor of well known columns in New York and Chicago newspapers.

Fred Leonard, a South Barre farmer, had occasion to test his horsemanship this morning while on his way to the city with a load of milk. In the south end, a thrill dropped by the horse's side, and that mishap was the signal for a spurt which did not end until the outfit had reached Depot square. Although the milk wagon rocked like a boat on the high seas and threatened to capsize every time the horse climbed a section of curbing, the driver pluckily held to his seat and retained a firm grip on the reins. As the team neared Depot square after challenging the right of way with all manner of wheeled vehicles on Main street, the horse became winded, and the task of bringing it to a slow-down was lightened considerably. The wagon was not badly damaged.

The program for the service flag dedication in which Barre Eagles, members of Aerie No. 1573, are to participate having been completed, it is announced that the exercises will take place in Clan Gordon hall Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Wives of the Eagles and other guests are to be present, and the principal speaker is to be Mayor F. W. Mitchell of Montpelier. There will be other addresses and an orchestra has been engaged to furnish music. Through-out the United States more than 400,000 Eagles will be unveiling service flags at the same hour. The aerie has purchased a large American flag, which will hang permanently in its lodge rooms, and in addition a service flag, carrying 18 stars, has been obtained. Thus far fifteen of the Eagles who enlisted from the Barre aerie are with the colors in France.

The last call for a public deer park has been sounded. Another meeting of persons interested will be held in the court room at city hall this evening at 7:30 o'clock, and if sentiment favors further efforts to interest in the project a large number of people in the city had for its purpose the pledging of a sizeable attendance at the meeting tonight. Very few citizens when approached refused to be present, and therefore a large attendance is anticipated. A site for the park has been donated, and people interested in the project have figured that the remaining expense will be relatively small. The fish and game department of Vermont has announced that the deer will be liberated May 16 if measures for the maintenance of a public deer park are not adopted.

Four students who are to represent Barre Sunday schools in the memorization contest which is to feature the county Sunday school convention in Montpelier next Wednesday were selected at an elimination rehearsal in the vestry of the Hedding Methodist church last evening. Twelve Sunday school students from the Congregational, Baptist, Presbyterian and Methodist churches competed for the honor of going to the county convention, and at the end of the recitations the following awards were made, decisions being based largely on memorization and enunciation: Senior class, Howard Geake of the Baptist Sunday school, Miss Emily Dodge of the Methodist Sunday school; junior class, Miss Ruth Wyllie of the Presbyterian Sunday school, and Herbert Anker of the Methodist school.
